

Requirement 14

For most part of the implementation the design remained unchanged from the OCD designed in the Third Project.

The things which changed are

- I had decided to implement a Graphical User Interface with multiple windows, But implemented a GUI with single window
- The structure of the xml test request in the OCD is different from that of the implemented one.

Apart from the above mentioned minor changes, the project implements all the concepts mentioned in the OCD.

The original Concept was practical, but needed more time though, like to implement the

User Interface and so on, Never during the implementation phase did I feel the concepts designed irrelevant